Scenarios

What resources are available to CBCAP in Program Assessment?

The field has begun to widely recognize program assessment as a necessary strategy and a variety of potential resources exist for CBCAP funded agencies. These include:

Selecting a Family Support & Strengthening Program Assessment Tool: An Overview for Program Leaders and Funders

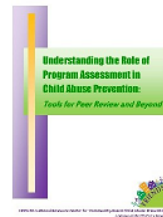

Friends, in conjunction with Center for the Study of Social Policy and the National Network of Family Support & Strengthening Networks, has developed a resource to help program analyze some of the current program assessment resources available. This joint brief helps programs determine similarities and differences between resources to determine the best fit for particular efforts.

The joint efforts also produced resources in:

Understanding the Role of Program Assessment in Child Abuse Prevention: Tools for Peer Review and Beyond

This resource was created by FRIENDS and is designed for Community-Based Child Abuse Prevention (CBCAP) programs conducting direct service with children, youth, and families. The tool provides information on the background of program assessment in CBCAP and outlines the role assessment supports in evaluation, parent involvement, and protective factors. The resource is structured to be user-friendly for programs by providing assessments that are structured around various topical areas listed in the sidebar.
